

RAILROADS GIVE NEW YORK MILK FAVORS

Worcester Producers Point to Discrimination Shown
Against Boston.
AT MERCY OF COMBINE

When the Worcester county milk producers receive their milk for their first week before the National Convention next Monday they will look upon a Massachusetts railroad rate as a milk with which to be proud.

The Worcester county milk producers have found that milk sent out from the Berkshire section to New York city, upon the basis of the rate of all farmers on the same terms, whether they ship a car or a railroad. The railroad companies have refused to make this exception in the case of the Worcester county milk.

EPISCOPALIANS PROTEST REMOVAL OF COIN MOTTO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND BISHOP POTTER ON MOTTO

To put such a motto on coins is to use it in any kind of manner, not only to give no good, but to give a bad one, and is an act of irreverence, which comes dangerously near to sacrilege. A beautiful and solemn sentence such as the one in question should be treated and uttered only with that fine reverence which necessarily implies a certain exaltation of spirit. —President Roosevelt, in a letter to the editor of the "Boston Herald" on Nov. 12.

Government takes away a suggestion of high ideals, high authority and reverence which should not be lost. The removal of the inscription or the alteration of the design of coins in any way should rest in the hands of Congress alone. —Bishop Potter, in a letter to the editor of the "Boston Herald" on Nov. 12.

What is your opinion on the removal of the motto from the coins? The motto on the coins has been removed and the coins are now being struck with the motto "E PLURIBUS UNUM".

WOMAN TAKES TRIP IN NEW WATER AUTO

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Julian P. Thomas, aeronaut and motorist, has had a trip in the new land and water auto. She saw the Waterland I. travel over rough roads, climb hills and then chug along in the Hudson, and decided she wanted a ride.

"May I?" she asked of one of the men who had come from France to show New Yorkers this amphibious automobile.

And the gallant Frenchman escorted her over the muddy bank of the river to a seat in the machine. The wheels revolved at a rapid rate, then disappeared and the

Boston Elevated Railway Company,
President's Office

November 13, 1907.

TO OUR PATRONS.

When the comp^y determined to run larger cars on Boylston street, heavier than those now in use, each scaling 50 per cent more, it was found that the Boylston Street Bridge was not only not strong enough to carry them, but that to carry other cars and for other uses it would be necessary to strengthen it. It was found that the City Engineer had estimated the expense of repairing bridges over which the company has a location, the company agreed to bear the expense of strengthening this bridge upon plans made by the City Engineer so that it would be strong enough to carry these larger cars. A contract was made, after competitive bids, for the repair of this bridge. There were three bids, and the company selected the lowest. It was understood that the company should have the use of one track. After the work was begun it was found that it would take so much longer than was expected that the contractor was asked to expedite the work, and was offered a bonus for so doing. The company suggested that the contractor should be paid for the extra time, and the contractor accepted. The quickest method of repairing would be to close the bridge and take the cars off altogether, so that the workmen could have as free a hand as possible in the daytime. This was done with the consent of the Mayor and Aldermen. The contractor agreed to furnish as large a number of men as would be necessary to keep the bridge open for the passage of the cars and a stream of passing locomotives. It would not be as expeditious to work at night, or in three shifts, as it would be to concentrate a larger force in the daytime. It was expected that work would also be done on Sunday, but owing to the interference of the police authorities, this was abandoned. It was found that the contractor was not doing the work as fast as was considered. It would take, however, under the law, (Acts of 1906, Chapter 463,) at least a month to secure permission from the Board of Aldermen, the Mayor and the Railroad Commissioners and to lay the tracks, even if there were no opposition from the abutters on Hereford street. It was found that the contractor was not doing the work as fast as was considered, but it was probable that the repairs could be finished as soon as the tracks could be laid legally. This project was, of course, given up, although the company was both willing and anxious to lay the tracks if it would help. The contractor has prosecuted the work with vigor, and it now remains only to lay the tracks on the Hereford street side of the bridge, and to connect them with both our tracks. City Engineer Jackson informs us that it is not true that the bridge will be soon thereafter closed to enable the city to repair the other portions of the bridge, for the reason that even after an appropriation is made (there is none now) it would take several months to complete the repairs. It is not probable that the city will be able to do this, and there is no likelihood that the city can begin its work before about the first of April. This would give us the use of our tracks during the winter. At that time it can be determined whether tracks should be laid upon Newbury and Hereford streets or over other streets, to be used by the city. The contractor has been very prompt in his work, and the company will gladly lay such tracks.

The company has no power to make the plans and go ahead with the work of strengthening bridges. It is dependent upon either the city or railroad companies. A notable instance of this kind was the inability of the company to use the Marlboro street bridge in East Boston. At a certain time, the company was unable to get necessary repairs made on the Huntington avenue bridge, and is delayed, also, on other bridges in other parts of its system. Provision ought to be made by law to make necessary repairs upon or strengthen bridges, and to enable the company to lay temporary tracks, so that its service may not be impaired. In the present case, the company is frequently delayed, and it is considered which it comes under the obligation to manifestly unfair that every fair-minded and reasonable person would want it changed.

"HONEY FITZ"

THE MAYOR OF BOSTON

The true story of how "Honey Fitz" became Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, written by George Kibbe Turner and published in the current issue of Collier's which is on sale today.

This is a most interesting article on Boston Politics as viewed by the world at large. It tells frankly the "inside" of Mayor Fitzgerald's administration from the beginning. How he started, with little education and no business training, to get the highest office in one of America's greatest cities and got it. How his newspaper helped his election. How he made appointments to office and who he appointed—for Superintendent of Streets a Jewish Dealer whose seat in the legislature was purchased upon a clause in the contract for Superintendent of Public Buildings a Jew washer, for Superintendent of Supplies an undertaker. How a saloon-keeper displaced a doctor on the Board of Health, and liquor dealers were chosen for Superintendent of Public Buildings and Wire Commissioners. Facts about the Mayor's paper, "The Republic," and how it pays him. Why such corporations as the New England Telegraph and Telephone Co., the Edison Electric & Illuminating Co., the New England Gas & Coke Co., the Boston & Maine Railroad, the Boston & Albany Co., and a prominent bank, always favor him. This is a remarkable article in this publication. There are many other interesting facts to be found in this.

COLLIER'S
THE NATIONAL WEEKLY

Every Bostonian interested in the progress of the city should read this important article. The same issue of Collier's also contains the $1,000 prize winning story, entitled "The Very Tired Girl." Other features are "Letters of a Japanese Schoolboy," by Hashimura Togo, and an exposition of that old game of "Diabolo" which fascinated our forefathers.

FEAR STRIFE IN AMERICAN PEACE MEET

Costa Rica and Guatemala Spar for Chairmanship of Conference.

TRY TO AVERT SQUABBLE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—That all will not be smooth sailing in the Central American peace conference, which begins to-morrow evening here to-day, has already been apparent.

It had been expected that Señor Calvo, the minister resident of Costa Rica, would be chosen permanent chairman of the conference, not only because of the fact that he is an American, but because of his diplomatic experience. But it is now reported that the Costa Rican minister has been elected to the chairmanship of the conference, which begins to-morrow evening here to-day, has already been apparent.

Opposition has, however, developed to the fact from the members of the Guatemalan delegation, who it is said, claim that their government, which is represented by Señor Calvo, is not the aggressor in many of the disputes between the two countries. The United States representative, however, has not been the aggressor in many of the disputes between the two countries.

A committee has been appointed to arbitrate pending offers. A committee has been appointed to arbitrate pending offers. A committee has been appointed to arbitrate pending offers.
